

1. Intel LGA1700

This was introduced with intel's 12th generation "Alder Lake" Processors in 2021, this socket supports 12th, 13th ,14th Gen Processors Includes model like core i9, core i7 & core i5. This also supports DDR4 and DDR5 Memory depending on the Motherboards.

2. AMD AM5

AM5 is AMD's current mainstream desktop socket, this supporting DDR5 memory. It uses an LGA(Land Grid Array) design with 1718 contact pads. AM5 is expected to last well into the Zen6 and possibly zen7 era, this giving builders a long upgrade path. This support AMD Ryzen 7 it features eight Zen 5 cores with 16 threads.

3. Intel LGA 1851

Intel latest core Ultra Arrow lake CPUs require the LGA 1851 socket along with DDR5 memory, Supported by Z890 and also B860 chipset board. Intel core ultra 7 is current-gen high performance desktop processor built for LGA 1851 platform.