

BUS TOPOLOGY

A small computer lab in an old school or training center may use a bus topology, where all computers are connected to a single backbone cable. It is suitable for small networks because it is simple to set up and requires less cabling, making it a low-cost solution.